This sum I owe you, and am unable now to pay; but I will pay it if I live; here is my note for it till I can send you the money." His surprised employer commended his trankness in making the painful and unconstrained avowal, assured him that he should never think the worse but the better of him for the revelation thus made, took the note, and promised to keep the confession sacredly locked up in his breast.

Mr. Helper-hardly yet of age-went soon after to California, where he carned and remitted the money be had taken from his employer, with interest to the last fraction, and ployer, with interest to the last traction, and got his receipt in full. The kindest relations were maintained between them; their inti-macy was renewed after Mr. Helper's return to North Carolina, and his old employer reto North Carolina, and his old employer repeatedly lent his endorsement to Mr. H., and had his notes discounted at the Salisbury Bank. No whisper of ill-feeling ever arose between them, until Mr. Helper, years after he had repaid the money, published his book on Slavery. Then his old employer, being intensely Pro-Slavery, violated the confidence that had been reposed in him, and endeavored to crush Mr. H. by proclaiming the self-confessed, bitterly lammeted transpression of his boyhood. A Monstrous Scheme.—Propularly speaking, the general idra has been that no element of mischief was lacking in Washington society, and that none could be added to it. The gentlemanly and enterprising superintendent of the Baltimare and Ohio railroad—all superintendents, betch-keepers, stemboat captains, &c., are gentlemanly and enterprising—has devoted himself to the terrible task of proving that the popular idea on this head proving that the popular idea on this head is a popular error. He proposes to bring five hundred veteran editors in a batch, and at one fell swoop, upon that wicked city! The cruelty, the ineffable wickedness and effrontery of such a proceeding, surpass the power of imagination, in its frishiest mood of mal-ice, to form a picture of. Five hundred editors dumped, shot, landed and turned loose upon the federal capital at once, and not only editors, but veteran edish hatred of society can suggest, but spare us that! It concerns the national life, the very existence of this people, that it should be stopped.—N. 1. Sunday Times.

ACTION FOR FALSE IMPRISONMENT .- During the United States Fair, held in this city last summer, a man named George Warner was arrested and imprisoned in the county his imprisonment, Warner formed the acsimprisonment, Warner formed the acquaintance of the young lawyer, Richard A. Storrs, who was at the same time in prison upon a charge of which he has since been acquitted. It appears that Mr. Storrs, with an eye to the main chance, neglected no opportunity to turn an houest penny even while confined, and that he consented to act as counsel for his fellow prisoner. Accordingly, we now learn that a suit is instituted.

The persons under arrest as parties to the crime are Daniel Carroll, Michael Burke, and Michael Castello. The nature of the evidence against these men it would be manifestly improper to reveal at present.—The former is held, it may be safely said, on his own admissions of guilt. He, with the second named, are well-known confederates in crime, the latter however, being old enough to be the former's father.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE—ROMANCE VS. RE-LITY.—Yesterday forenoon, about ten o'-clock, a German named Brown, who resides on Scott street, stepped on the ferry boat, on the Cincinnati side, accompanied by his wife, intending to return home. It appears that the conjugal relations of the two are far otherwise than agreeable, and it is known that they frequently indulge in harsh words, and even blows in their intercourse with one another.

The couple seated themselves outside of, The couple seated themselves outside of, and directly aft the cabin, and for a moment were silent. But it was only for a moment. The woman appeared very indignant about something, and she commenced a sort of Anglo-Teutonic lecture for the benefit of her lord, under which the latter appeared at first uneasy—then desperate, and suiting his actions to his feelings, he ran forward and leaved into the river. leaped into the river.

PLAYING HANG .- An unfortunate youth Playing Hand.—An unfortunate youth in Quincy, Mass., aged about 14 years, who bears the name of John Brown, was lately tried by his companions for treason and sentenced to be hung. He was placed upon a burrel, and a rope, suspended from the limb of a tree, was passed under his arms. At the appointed time the barrel was kicked from under him, and the rope slipped and caught him by the neck. Had not a woman rushed out and cut the rope with a coving rushed out and cut the rope with a carving knife, the boy would doubtless have met with as tragical an end as his prototype, with far less of notoriety,

"SEATS TO LET." On a recent Sabbath morning a stranger visited one of our fashionably built charches, for the purpose of worship, and on asking the sexton for a seat, he replied—forgetting St. Paul's instructions to "be conrecus"—"We have plenty of seats to let, sir !!" The sexton, notwithatanding his ourt answer, condescended to show the stranger to a seat. At the close of the services, the gentleman inquired for the treasurer of the society, and ascertaining the price for one year, he quietly handed him the amount, with the request that the seat might be "reserved for strangers!"—Cambridge Chronicle.

BY LAST NIGHT'S REPORT Congressional Proceedings

Washington, Dec. 17—9 P. M. House.—Mr. Larrabee sent to the Clerks table a copy of the Milwaukee Free Democrat, from which the latter read the proceedings of a meeting purporting to be held by German adopted citizens, in which sympathy is expressed for John Brown, holding him as with hord and resolute and the him as noble hearted and resolute, and it to be held up by the friends and champions of freedom for the imitator of mankind; also saying that adopted citizens are hostile to tyranny of every kind.

Mr. Larrabee remarked that if any of his colleagues did not recognize that paper as Republican, let them say so. At his request an editorial was read in the same paper in spirit with the proceedings of the meeting— He was satisfied that the Senator from Wisconsin, Mr. Doolittle, was mistaken when he said there was no newspaper in that State which supported and sustained Jno Brown's invasion of Va. He thought, however, that at that time the fact to which he had just re erred had not been brought to Mr. Doolit le's attention.

Mr. Larrabes needed not to be informed, as he had been, by the leading German citizens of Wisconsin, that such were not their opinions. He had been in their midst for four-teen years and could say that a more intelligent, loyal and patriotic men were not living on the soil of the United States. They were hostly to fematicism and to the saytiments of hostile to fanaticism and to the sentiments of distinction and war on the part of the South. He felt it to be his duty to hard back the accusations against part of the people he had the honor to represent. He was surprised to hear gentlemen charge the present Administration with corruption and extravagance; he thought the President was entitled to all aise. We all agree that the Republican party or gauized at the North is a purely sectional party. This is the very state of things which Washington warned us against in his farewell address. A great party could not be built on a geographical line.

He thought Mr. Seward's remarks respect-ing the "irrepressible conflict" originated in his ambition to reach the Presidential chair, thinking an appeal to sectional passions and prejudices the best way to reach it. He never had any doubt but that the raid of John Brown was the legitimate effect of the teachings of the extreme section of the Republican party North—the teachings of the Tribune, Wendell Phillips and others. He had heretofore thought a dissolu-tion of the Union impossible, but now ven-tured to say that if Northern men persist in their course and the South reach against the orth, the dissolution of the Union may not

North, the dissolution of the Union may not be a question of time, but may occur between now and the first of May. Mr. Larrabee reviewed Mr. Seward's irre-pressible conflict doutrine. He never heard, on this floor or on the stump. Republicans denonneing abolition sentiments. It appeared to him that the conflict was not between different kinds of labor, but between different races of men. He did not believe in the uniy of the human race. If the slaves were ee, what could be done with them? The free, what could be done with them? The North don't want them. As Mr. Larrabee ceased speaking, there was a general cry of Mr. Clark.

Mr. Grow moved a vote be taken for Speaker. The roll was called, and the House proceeded to ballot for Speaker, with the following result: Sherman 110; Bocock 85; Bottler 23; scattering 9: total vote 229. ing result: Sherman 110; Bocock So; Bottler 23; scattering 9: total vote 229.

MATTERS AT WASHINGTON .- The Washington correspondent of the Journal of Commerce, says the greatest degree of personal hostility prevails between Mr. Douglas and the President. Mr. Douglas, however, has recently declared that he will support the Democratic nominee at Charleston. He will soon be able to take his seat in the Senate.

The same correspondent says that the "Democrats and South Americans have carry the plurality rule, under which they expect to elect Mr. Sherman.17

THE DISUNION DENOCRACY.-What is the testimony of Mr. HASKIN, to the Disunion attitude of the pro-slavery Democracy?-In a late speech he stated that he had heard in the House of Representatives upwards of a dozen Southern speechs, every one of which breathed disunion sentiments. These speeches were applauded in the galleries by men holding positions under the General Government. He had not heard a speech on the opposite side that did not breathe a spirit of devotion to the Constitution and for the protection of the South in all its constitutional rights.

To-day it represents less than one niaeteenth? In 1849 there were 3,490 is an extensive property in St. for railroad grants, 6,318,203; under Swamp acts grants, 1,712,040; a total of 10,618,180 acres. The cash receipts were less last year, but more acres were disposed of owing to the operation of the graduation of act 1854.

U. S. DEPUTY MARHALS .- The Madison Patriot of Friday last says that U. S. Marshal Lewis has made the following additional appointment of Deputies:

Dr. Joseph Gray, of St. Croix county. JOHN G. GILMAN, of Jefferson county. F. McCarry, of Fond du Lac.

Mr. CASWELL, of Racine. Mr. GARLIC, of Milwankee.

Mr. Hubbard, of La Crosse.

What a Fine Thing this Bogus Democracy is ! The following was in last week's Courier: "POSTMASTER SUPPORTING THE REPUBLI-CAN CANDIDATES.—Charles Lyman, Post-master, at Lynxville, in this county, is a rabid Republican, holds his appointment under the Democratic Administration, and did his worst to defeat the Democratic Ticket.—
His case must be attended to. The Post Office is very little needed at Lynxville during the winter, and the inhabitants would rather have it discontinued. There are several good democrats in that town, whom we know The Courier is trying its hand at imitating larger organs of the sham democracy, and it succeeds very well. This bullying tone is being adopted pretty generally by Buchanan presses; and as a copy of the Courier containing the above will be marked and sent to Mr. Larrabee, (the only Democratic Congressman from Wisconsin,) who makes it his business to have the heads of Departments at Washington distribute official patronage only to Democrats, we should not be mach surprised if our friend Lyman were removed from the humble position of Postmarter at Lynxville! "His case" will probably "be attended to."

The remark that "the post office is very little remarks of the product of almost every business man in the La Crosse Republican & Democrat of late, about which would be our best market, Milwaukee or Chicago, I wish to state what is the opin ion of those who live on this side of the mighty Mississippi.

St. Louis received about all that was bought here, the shipments to other markets were nothing, in fact. It is the opinion of almost every business man in master at Lynxville? This case will probably "be attended to."

The remark that "the post office is very little needed at Lynxville during the winter," shows that the Courier is not posted. Lynxville does need a post office in the winter quite as much as any other town in the county. It polls seventy-one votes, of which fifty-two are Republican—conclusive evidence that it is a reading community. But should the post office be discontinued, the inconvenience will be of short duration. In 1861 we shall have more mail routes and more Republican pretrasters in the West than walkes in surplying our merchants with the connounce them with the connounce them with the connounce there is a fact that it is a reading community. The Times last evening printed a lefter from a Virginia gentleman, in which the Vir-ginia gentleman says that he, with most of the other Virginia gentlemen, have hoped, beretofore, that the Union would be preserved. But all the Virginia gentlemen are now satisfied that "a rupture is energiable." Mr. Bemus recommends Fitch's Truss as likely to be of service in such a case.— Hart-

The Patriot copies its present figures from the report of the Secretary of State, and some of the items included therein are of such an extraordinary character as to require a moment's reflection. Taking the Secretary's figures in the order in which they occur, the first item we will mention is that of "mileage" in Legislative expenses. This the Secretary estimates at $4,600, while the actual amount paid last session was $3,662, or a thousand dollars less than now intimated. It cannot vary much from year to year. The next is the per diem of the officers and clerks of the Legislature, amounting to $9,250, as estimated by the increase is and projected to the first included the officers of years of the secretary of State for a sixty days. approximated in their negotiations concern- will mention is that of "mileage" in Legising the Speakership to an agreement for uni- lative expenses. This the Secretary estimates ted action, but several of the latter are still at $4,600, while the actual amount paid last impracticable. It is thought, however, that session was $3,662, or a thousand dollars the arrangement may still be made. On the less than now intimated. It cannot vary other hand, the Republicans and the Anti- much from year to year. The next is the Lecompton Democrats will no doubt, soon per diem of the officers and clerks of the Legby the Secretary of State for a sixty days by the Secretary of State for a sixty days session. Actual amount of last session of sixty-seven days was $7,015, two thousand two hundred and fifty dollars less than the present estimate. Then comes the printing for the Legislature, estimated at $45,000, huro-partial of the meaning citizens who expose all legislature in the second of rights among citizens who expose all legislature impairing their security. tofore estimated at $15,000.

Query: Has the Secretary just learned that his estimates heretofore have been but a third large enough, or is this supposed to be the legitimate price "according to the contract?" The Secretary allows $7,000 to pay the interest and exchange on State loan, white probably be nothing. The most the State ever paid in one year for exchange was $125, which was charged by Mr. Kuehn in 1857, which was charged by Mr. Kuehn in 1857, and the state of the state of the State of the State of the State. The event prompted some inquiry into the progress of Slavery in this city and county, and we find that as a local institution it is growing comparatively "small by degrees and beautifully less." Our readers will remember the table of taxable property in this county, which we published on Tuesday morning. It gave the aggregate large enough, or is this supposed to be the interest and exchange on State loan, white $6,000 pays the interest and exchange will probably be nothing. The most the State ever paid in one year for exchange was $125, which was charged by Mr. Kuenn in 1857, while for the last year it has been but $9. I mention these facts to show that the Secrethe Danule. The schooner Hugh Barelay was a targ's estimate is a liberal one. He also makes provision for contingent expenses unknown $25,000, unadjusted claims, estimated, $25,-

PILES! PILES!! PILES!!!

What is it? Hom Cured? 1 PILES-suffer for years with the disease-yer tew know what is is, or how it is cured. Every case of Piles, whether manifested in the form of external tumors, frequent bleeding, or in violent itching and irrisation, depends essentially upon congestion of the abdominal venous circuistion. This produces the abdominal venous circuistion. This produces the engorgement dilation of the veina, formation of tumors, hemorrhages, pain and soffering; and the disease can only be fundamentally cured by medicines which, taken internally, relieve this abdominal venous congestion. Hence, ointments, washer, and even injections, are ineffectual. HUMPHREYS' HOMEOPATHIC PILE SPECIFIC, a simple sugar pill, taken two or three times per day, cures the dis-ase by curing the condition upon which the disease depends. Hundreds have been cured by it, even of the most obstinate cases. All will be promptly ben htted by it. Price 20 cents a box.

N. B.—A full set of Husphermys? Hommorathic Specifics, with Book of Directions, and twenty remedies, in large 3-drachm visis, and morocco case, 45: do, in plain case, 34. Family case of fifteen boxed and book 45. These remedies, by the single box or case, are sent reputation is unequaled in the entire west

THE PUBLIC BLESSING WHICH IS now so universally admitted to exist in Moffat's Life Pille and Phoenis Bittors, is every day demonstrated by their astonishing efficacy in the cases which they are announced to cure. All the complaints of the atomach and bowels, weakness of the plants of the stomach and howes, weakness of the digestive organs and of the system generally, billous and liver affections, night fevers, head nobes, piles costiveness, consumption, rbeamatism, sourry, impurity of the blood, or blotched and sallow complexions, soon yield to their curative proporties. A single trial invariably secures them the title of the best family medicine now before the public. For sale by the proprietor, W. B. For the Duily Scatinet, THOUGHTS, SUGGESTED ON SERING A FUNFIELD PROCESSION BETURN SHIVERING, FROM PORTEST ROME. BY MES. H. E. S. DAY.

"A time to die," Oh, let me not die in the Winter,-When the forms of the mourners must chill, Bearing me away from my hearthstone, To my snow-covered home on the bill.

Oh, let me not die in the Winter .-When the tear-drops must freuze as they start, When no well-beloved can linger, Till the turf is laid soft on the heart. Oh, let me not die in the Winter,-

When the trees are all leafless and bare,— When no gentle zephyr can murmur My farewell to earth, sunlight and care. Oh, let me not die in the Winter,---

When the wild-buds and blossoms are dead;-It scatters the gloom round the sleeper,
When the daisy blooms bright on the bed.

Oh, let me not die in the Winter,-When no shadow can curtein my rest, When leaves will sweep past with a shiver, As though fearing the chill of my breast.

But, if I must die in the winter, Then I'll leave the worn casket with time, The jewel bear back to the giver To be set with a skill most divine,

Yea, if I must die in the winter,

Like a heaven-honored princess 1'll lie,--My shroud, with its white ample border, All resplendant with gents from on high, Yea, if I must die in the winter, When the authoms of nature are grand,

I will list at the great Temple's portain Where heaven and carth's harmonies blend. Milwaukee, Dec., 1859.

swimming for Women—The Swimming School

at Paris. As many parents are wishing to know how sirls can be taught the use of their limbs in the water, it may be interesting to them to hear how the art is taught at Paris. The water is that of the Seine. This is the least agreeable circumstance in the case, as the water of the Scine is quite as unfragrant in the Summer months as that of the Thames. the Summer months as that of the Thames. Whether it is purified on entering the baths, I do not know. Let us hope it is. The bath is moored in the river, and the space occupied by water is 120 feet in length; a course long enough to afford room for all the exercises connected with swimming. A wooden platform, three or four feet under water, reaches to about the middle of the width of the bath, and this is for the water and the second the bath; and this is for the use of children, and mere bathers who do not swim. The other half is of a considerable depth in the other half is of a considerable depth in the middle, admitting of practice in genuine diving. The dress is excellent for the purpose. It is made of a light woolen fabric, which does not absorb much water. The trowsers are loose, and fastened at the nakles. The upper dress, also loose, extends to the knee, and is belted round the waist, and closed at the neck. It is just as decent a dress as English ledic used to wear when lath was actived. the neck. It's just as decent a frees as Eng-lish ladies used to wear when Bath was called "The Bath," and when wigged gentlemen and powdered ladies used to wade about in full trina, and chat in the water. The first step in the process of teaching is to make the pupils understand how to keep on the sur-face, and how to sink to the bottom. Most people know that to spread out the limbs is to float, and to double one's self is to sink but it is not everybody who knows that the quickest way of going to the bottom is to nise the arms above the head. This is pre-isely what women do when they full out of boot, or find themselves overboard in a

a boat, or and themselves overboard in a shipwreok. Up go their arms in their terror, and down they go to the bottom like a shot. This is the action used by divers, who want to reach that point by the shortestway. From the ceiling of the Paris bath hangs a rope, which travels along on a sort of crane. Where this rope touches the water a broad belt is attached to it. The belt is fastened again a best the water restricts the same of the easily about the pupils, waist, supporting her in the water, and leaving her at liberty to learn the action of the limbs in swimming. She is made perfect in these, and must then try her powers without support. To render her safe and preclude fear, the instructor, (who is a master and not a mistress) walks along the edge, just before her, holding a pole within her reach, which she can grasp in an instant if fatigued or alarmed. It does not follow that we must have swimming-masters in England. The art is taught all along the rivers of Germany, and invariably by women in the women's baths. In that case the dress is less elaborate, and there is oase the dress is less elaborate, and there is more freedom and simplicity in the practice. It is a remarkable sight when the master is followed by 10 or 20 pupils, his pole reminding one of the magnet which brings awans or lishes to the bread in a basin of water, in the old-fashioned toy which astonishes children. The second pupil has a hand on the shoulder of the first, and swims with the other three limber the religious the third on the shoulder. the other three limbs; the third on the shoul-der of the second, and 50 on, looking like a shoal of mermaids. When so theroughly at case to amuse themselves for a long time in the water, the ladies sometimes grow hun-gry; and then is seen another remarkable sight, not quite so pretty. They rush from the bath to a confectioner's shop, which opens upon it, and may be seen presently swimming with one hand, and with the other eating their lunch, completely at ease. -After learning the art in fresh water, it is nighty easy to swim in the sea, from the density of the water, and scarcely possible to sink. A woman who knows how to float is safe for many hours in the sea, as far as keeping on the surface is concerned. Among breakers or sharks, or in extreme cold, the peril is not of drowning simply. The simple peril of drowning might be reduced to something very small if everybody could swim—(acc a lice). swim. - Once a Week.

Agricultural. FATTENING STOCK ON POTATOES .- It has been found, by experiment, that potatoes will fatten hogs, or other stock, much faster, and with less waste, if they are deprived of the non-nitrogenous elements contained in them. non-nitrogenous elements contained in them. Liebig says: "German agriculture has been led by experience to a very simple method of converting potatoes into fattening fodder, similar to grain in its composition. This method is the foundation stone of the profitable agriculture of Germany; and it consists in removing, entirely or to a great extent, and by a purely chemical process, the non-nitrogenous part of the potatoes, and using the residue, which contains all these plastic constituents, to feed stock. The potatoes are reduced to a thin paste, and placed in contact with malt, by the action of which the starch is converted into sugar. The mash, as it is called, is now mixed with beer yeast, which causes it to ferment, and the whole of the sugar is thus destroyed. By distilling the fermented mash, the starch of the potatoes is obtained in the form of spirits, and the

is obtained in the form of spirits, and the residue or dregs forms the most valuable food for fattening stock." MAC. REMARKS.—We think our correspondent REMARIS.—We think our correspondent fails to get the true idea of the quotation from Liebig. It is absurd to suppose that potatoes are more fattening when deprived of their starch. The refuse of potato distilleries may be more nutritious, weight for weight, than the potatoes themselves. But of this we have some doubt. Certain it is, that if we take a bushel of potatoes and submit them to a process whereby all the starch is removed, the remaining nitrogenous matter will not afford as much nourishment as the original bushel of potatoes would have done. A girbushel of potatoes would have done. A given weight of the refuse may be as nutritions as potatoes, but to suppose that the starch which has been removed is not nutritious also, is ridiculous.—Genesee Farmer. GOOD STOCK THE MOST PROFITABLE .- In my father's yard during the winter are several head of cattle, young and old. Some are natives, but the greater portion are grades with from one-half to seven-eights Shorthorn blood in them. All the stock are treated alike, and receive the same food, and the stock are treated alike, and receive the same food, and the same care and attention. The cows are warmly stabled, and the young stock have good warm sheds, and plenty of straw. The native cows eat their meals quickly, and then native cows eat their meals quickly, and then grab all they can from their neighbors. The native stock in the yard do the same. The grades cat quietly and contentedly, and submit to being plundered of their last morsel by the others. Yet the grades come out in the spring increased in size, in good condition, and with sleek coats, while the natives seem to stop growing and get so poor it requires a summer pasturage to get up their condition and start their growth again.—W. S.

CORN-STALKS FOR MILCH Cows.—It is undesirable that milch cows should be allowed to feed on dried cornstalks. They are apt to cause them to fall back in their milk; and although the quality of the milk may be improved thereby, yet it will not be in a corresponding ratio to the loss in quantity. Solding Cows.—Hon. Josiah Quincy saya, one of the advantages gained by soiling is the saving of land. One acre will support three saving a dam. One soiling season. The cows during the soiling season. The cows are turned out but two lours, morning and evening, and the balance of the time they are kept in the stables. They keep healthy, and yield more milk annually, than consusually do. One man will take care of, fied, water, clean, and milk twenty cows. They are feed four or five times a day.

SATURDAY EVENING, December 17th. Money Matters.

The money market, during the past week, has preented no new features. Indeed, our money market has been characterized by more than usual steadiness during the past mouth. The demand, of currency, to meet the wants of the pork trade, has been sufficient to keep it from accumulating to an inconvenient ex-tent, and in fact it has increased so much of late as to cause a little stringency in the market. The banks, however, are "doing" pretty much all the straight bu-siness paper offering at the legal rate, and screet bro-

Saturday: rates remain as heretofore-1% premium on the fast. 50 bus mixed Winter at $1; 250 bus Club delivered at CHICAGO MONEY MARKET, -The Press & Tribune of Business to day has been quiet, and the only notice able feature is the gradual stiffening of exchange.—

Buyers rates to-day are 1/10/15, with ready purchasers; selling I per cent, at bank and held firmly. Under the indiuence of the low rates of exchange ruling in the early part of the week, immense amounts of currency were received this morning from country correspondents, for investment in Eastern drafts, and of course the relative condition of the market was very decidedly aftered. As yet we hear of no complaints on either hand, and the market generally is working smoothly.

There is very little detound for gold. It retails at 2/2014 premium.

The banks are doing nearly all the business of the city. Outside brokerage has about disappeared from the streets.

The wheat market was very dull to day and decline another cent, buyers not willing to pay more than 92@ 92%c for No. 1 Spring and 95@95c for Club to Extra. The sales were very trifling, as no one was anxious to why: buy while the markets remained so unsettled at the Fast, and holders were not generally disposed to sell at the figures offering. As on the previous two days the market for flour was very inactive. The only tronsaction that came to our knowledge was a sale of 100 bels of choice country Spring Extra at $1.25 in store. This is about the price offering for the top country brands, but sellers are still holding out for higher floures. One of Prescott, sellers are still holding out for higher figures. One of the causes of the decline was an advange of 10 cents in eastward Railroad freights. Receipts and sales of hogs are noted under the head of posk and provisions.

We have now received full as many hogs as were packed here during the whole of last season, and the receipts have not begun to fall off yet. It is quite like, ly, therefore, that there will not be less than fifty thouand hogs packed at Milwaukee the present season.—
A large number of the hogs marketed here this season have come from Northern lows, and not a few from Northern Illinois by the way of the Racine and Mississippl and Lake Shore Roads. The hogs now arriving are much bester in quality than those marketed early in the sesson, being fatter and averaging heavier, making a large proportion of them mess pork hogs.—
To-day Messrs, Johnson & Olysten took in 290 hogs being 200 pounds each, from McGregor, Iowa and Janesville.
